

I do agree that the FCC should support video mail service to be part of the telecommunication relay system. Due to the fact that this is a service that is functionally equivalent to hearing people who have voice mail. Thank you for your time and consideration.